The Viking Voice

Northeast High School • Kansas City, Missouri www.northeast.kcpublicschools.org

As we end 2022, I would like to thank you for your commitment to Northeast High School and to the belief in a public school education. The success we have experienced since the opening of the school year owes a great deal to parents/guardians and families like yours. I wish you a restful winter break and hope you enjoy this time with your scholar. For the New Year, I wish you good health, happiness, and hope the winter recess provides a myriad of opportunities for you and your scholar to do things you might not be able to accomplish when school is in session.

Our scholars and staff have accomplished a lot during our first few months of school. Professional development helps our teachers dive deeper into the progressive philosophy of teaching and learning. Our progressive vision is designed to use a child's natural curiosity to drive their learning inside of the classroom. The standards help teachers design the best lessons and help scholars set goals for success. Our professional development focused on how to help teachers build an environment where scholars can effectively engage in a wide range of rigorous, content-rich conversation, safe, supportive and collaborative. Our instructional focus is on developing writing strategies.

We believe in the importance of family traditions and holidays, and sharing them with one another at school. We welcome families to teach us about their heritages, thus strengthening the connection between home and school.

I wish you and your family a wonderful holiday season. Our last day in school is Friday, December 16th. Young scholars do best with regular schedules, and I encourage you to prepare for their return to school on Tuesday, January 3, 2023 by instilling in them an understanding about the importance of being rested and ready to learn.

DIA DE LOS MUERTOS Readers' Celebration

Too many reasons to have fun, dress up in costumes and play games in the Viking Media Center for the Readers' Celebration! Viking students honored their ancestors with the Dia de Los Muertos butterflies. The fun started with a mystery scavenger hunt followed by a costume fashion show, and the mummy game. This video captured some of the fun moments. It was a fun-filled day!

In Biology Class: What's in your DNA?

Over the past couple of weeks, Mr. Cunningham's biology students have been learning about the structure and function of DNA, RNA, and proteins. Students have been creating models of a DNA double helix to visualize and investigate the process of DNA replication, RNA transcription and translation, protein synthesis/gene expression, and genetic mutations. Students were actively engaged in learning. Great job Mr. Cunningham!!

Vikings celebrate Día de los Muertos

November 2nd was Día de los Muertos, a Mexican holiday to honor loved ones who have passed Unlike funerals on. or Halloween, Día de los Muertos is not sad, scary, frightening. Instead, it is or а celebration of life, even those that have passed. Like Halloween, it is believed to be a time when the deceased may return to the world of the living. Unlike Halloween, when people wear scary costumes to prevent the dead from stealing their bodies, Día de los Muertos is seen as a reunion with lost loved ones. After learning about the holiday and how it differs from Halloween, Spanish students made traditional artesanías. Paper flowers and papel picado often used decorate are to ofrendas, a type of altar assembled in memory of deceased friends and family which include foods, drinks and items favored in life, as well as pictures and candles.

What the students are saying?

"I think the papel picado was a good way to learn and make new things. It makes class more interesting and fun. It was nice learning about the papel picado, a different culture, and learning more depth into a holiday. I think making something related to what you're learning makes you understand it more and helps you know things with a better understanding."

- Than Aye

- Amisi Mpole

"Making papel picado of Day of the Dead was very interesting and new to me. I have never ever made anything to honor the dead and doing the papel for Day of the Dead was me honoring the people before without even realizing it. Now I see why people in Mexico and other South and Central American people celebrate the people who were here before us. I would like to thank the teacher for the opportunity she gave us to explore the way people in Latin community honor their past relatives."

Physics Class Project: Roller Coasters

Physics students enrolled in Mrs. Spearman-Kaki's class designed roller coasters to experiment with potential and kinetic energy.

Roller coasters are all about physics! Unlike other vehicles like cars and trains, roller coasters do not have an engine that propels them along the track. Instead, they rely on gravitational potential energy*, which they gain by initially being towed up a large hill.

What happened during the Roller Coaster Project?

Mrs. Spearman-Kaki explained: If you made your starting hill tall enough, and all the curves and loops of your roller coaster were gradual, your marble should have been able to get all the way to the end. However, if your coaster had any sharp turns or corners, your marble might have gotten stuck. If you tried to have your marble go up a hill or through a loop that was taller than the hill it started on, it wouldn't make it all the way through.

Teachers and students are invited to stop by the Viking Media Center to visit the roller coasters exhibit.

Lyriks Institution: Turning Thought into Action

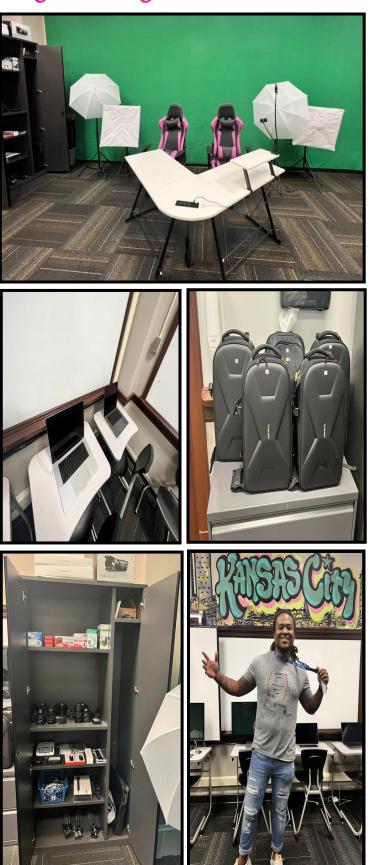

Lyriks community partners, One our is Institution, is putting the finishing touches on the broadcasting room at Northeast High School. It has been a journey to this point, but Mr. Kyle Hollins says he is extremely grateful to the partners who came together to bring this to life. Mr. Hollins shared with The Viking Voice, "I want to thank Bryan Davenport for coming on to teach the class, Stanley Taylor with KCGP for partnering for the salaries of the facilitators, and Shumaker Family Foundation, Health Forward Foundation, Arvest Bank, and the community for coming together to bring this opportunity to our youth. Special thanks to Mr. Raymond Lucas and Ms. Aisha Williams for all the behind the scenes work that it takes to launch a program at a Lyrik's standard."

The students have been given state-of-the-art Apple computers and tablets, high-end Cannon cameras, different lenses, backpacks, and so much more.

Lyriks launched this internship for student voice and for real world learning. This isn't just a class but a chance to audition for a job. The teacher is a real professional photographer with a studio and I client base. He is looking to hire and so is Lyriks. We want to teach and hire students who want to make a career in this field.

"Life is happening right now, and we too often charge students to learn but don't pay them to when they can create products with a high value. Lyrik's is coming to change the way we learn."

rsity,

Our new partnership with the Hispanic Development Fund, has brought many exciting new opportunities for our students. We now have a Family College Prep Program that organizes college tours to their partnered institutions. This fall semester we will have visited six colleges.

Northeast's School Advisory Committee (SAC) met Wednesday, November 15. Parents, school staff, and community partners came together to discuss ways of improving parent involvement, the school's climate, and other initiatives. Special presentations and resources were given by Ms. Brionna Taylor, Northeast's College Access Specialist; Ms. Jaden Powell, Attorney with Justice in the Schools (KCPS Legal Clinic); and Mr. Bryan Davenport, City of Kansas City, Missouri Health Department. Kudos to Mr. Melvin Brown, FaCE Liaison, on facilitating the meeting! SAC says to ALL Northeast stakeholders, "COME AND GO WITH US. WE NEED YOU!"

parent Workshops

Since November, Northeast High School started hosting weekly in-person Parent Workshops for our Northeast families in our Parent Resource Room (Room 220). So far, we have had the City of Kansas City, Missouri Health Department, Justice in the Schools Legal Clinic, US Army, and Corey's Network on campus meeting with individuals and sharing resources. The goal is to increase parental involvement and build more engagement with the community this school year. Shown below is the calendar with December's sessions.

If there is a workshop or topic you would like more information on, contact our Family and Community Engagement Liaison, Mr. Melvin Brown at (816) 418-3316 or mbrown1@kcpublicschools.org. We can't wait to see you!
